Good Morning,

FOB China HRC

The index fell by $3/t yesterday (1.11.21) to US$658/t, MTD US$660/t.

Sentiment in China turned negative from the spread of Covid-19 cases in north China's Hebei province. A large Chinese mill cut its offer to $720/t fob for SS400 HRC after two weeks absence of offers. However, that level remained much higher than other mills' or traders' offers at $670-680/t fob. Some traders even offered at $642/t fob China for positional coils after a deal for small quantity of coils sold at the same level last week, which was not representative of the mainstream market levels.

A deal for 10,000t positional Chinese SAE1006 grade coils sold at $690/t cfr Vietnam last week. Offers were almost unchanged at $690-740/t cfr Vietnam from China and $790/t cfr Vietnam from a South Korean mill. (Argus)

Turkish Scrap

Turkish mills were heard to book further Deepsea import scrap cargoes, despite continued concern over both domestic and export rebar demand, sources said.

S&P Global Platts assessed Turkish imports of premium heavy melting scrap 1/2 (80:20) Jan. 11 at $482/mt CFR, up 75 cents/mt on day.

A US-origin cargo totaling 29,000 mt was booked Jan. 8 by an Iskenderun mill, with HMS 1/2 (90:10) at $485/mt CFR, and shred, PNS material both at $492/mt CFR, for end-February shipment. Value for premium HMS 1/2 (80:20) relative to the cargo was put at $482/mt CFR.

Market sources also cited four EU-origin deals heard to be booked by Turkish mills over Jan. 6-7, including two reported sales from a Benelux recycler at $472/mt CFR for HMS 1/2 (80:20) to two Marmara mills.

"The EU sellers are now well covered for February shipment, looking at what's been sold, but now the Turks almost fully open for March shipment," an EU recycler said. "They may look to test prices for March shipment, but I don't see any price collapse happening, as the supply situation is still difficult for Turkey." (Platts)

EHR CME

Northwest European hot-rolled coil (HRC) prices continued to rise yesterday on limited supply, but buyers were wary of an increase in import offers and some domestic deliveries being ready earlier than anticipated.

Argus' daily northwest EU HRC index rose by €9.25/t to €688.50/t.

One buyer said material ordered for March was ready for delivery now, which seems at odds with talk of extended lead times. One German steelmaker was booked until May-June, while another large producer was reportedly sold out for the second quarter — some said it was 80,000-90,000 t/month short of HRC for the German market until July.

The return of European capacity remained a concern. ArcelorMittal is restarting the 2.3mn t/yr blast furnace B at its Gent site in Belgium early in February, according to industry sources, and ramping up its small Sestao electric arc furnace, which produces high-quality material. Other mills are also looking to increase output, while NLMK La Louviere will be back producing after a maintenance stoppage. (Argus)
