Fertilizer Financial Markets Commentary/Curves

NOLA FUTURES & SWAPS

UREA

NOLA Urea values were essentially steady today, with overall activitiy quiet subdued. Most market participants were expecting another Indian tender to be announced this morning, but reports now indicate that a tender may be on the way early next week instead. With that letdown, most were unwilling to chase values today, and thus markets were muted. There was a limited amount of physical trade reported today, with loaded business reported at $455, a prompt barge at $455, and a full June barge done at $441. Cleared futures went untraded today, with bids and offers scattered.

DAP

NOLA DAP futures were the only cleared trades on the CME today. The Q3 values crept higher, with with one strip trade at $613, and another at $615. November futures also traded once at $602. The futures curve continues to flatten out, with Q4 frames shifting higher through the mid-morning though no deals were done.

INTERNATIONAL FUTURES

Intl futures saw support today, with buying interest building back up. An Indian tender wasn't announced as some anticipated (now expected next week), but that did little to dampen sentiment. Sellers were on the back foot, expecting better than last done levels across the board. Values were stable if not a touch firmer, but no trading here to report.
