Market Commentary / Recent Trades

Iron ore experienced a volatile morning session today, opening at a session high of $129.10 and plummeting to a low of $126.75, ultimately closing at $126.95. In the afternoon, iron ore opened at $126.65, reaching highs of $127.60 before retracing to $125.90. Iron ore closed at $126.05 in the afternoon.

We saw Cal25 trade this afternoon, and Q1-25/Q2-25 trading at $3.50. Q2/Q4 also traded in size, with spreads tightening from $9.50 to $9.35 through the day. Additionally, Jun/H2 traded at $5.50.

The dip in price today was triggered by the release of Chinese economic data at 10am SGT. China missed fourth-quarter GDP estimates, as GDP for the last three months of 2023 rose by 5.2%, missing analysts' estimates of 5.3%. Negative market sentiment was exacerbated by news of a broader downturn of the Chinese property market, as China's home prices see the largest fall since 2015.
