Verdict- Neutral.

DCE May25 contract rallied in the last hour of trading. The total contract open interest further increased to the highest level since September 23rd last year. The MACD in the hourly cycle is approaching the zero axis, indicating a weakening trend. The CCI in the hourly cycle has broken through the neutral zone and entered the bullish zone. If the price breaks through 829.5 in the future, it potentially triggers a rapid rebound. At the same time, be aware of the changes in active buyers in the next few sessions.
