Market Commentary / Recent Trades

At the open of the Singapore morning session, the flat price stood at $95.00, rising to a high of $95.35 shortly thereafter. The flat price then declined to $94.65 approaching the close of the London morning session, with a Cal 26 outright trading at $89.40 in 2.5kt. Post-session, small clips of Q3 outright traded in 5kt, and there was notable July outright activity at $94.50 in 50kt.

Spreads remained relatively stable throughout the day, except for a 5-cent widening in the Q4/Q2 spread. Notable spread trades included a Cal 26/Cal 27 at $4.15 in 1kt and 1.5kt post-London morning session. Q4/Q2 traded at $2.50 in 20kt, later widening to $2.55 in 30kt across multiple clips.

Weak domestic demand and ongoing U.S. trade tensions have contributed to a 6% decline in iron ore prices this year. Additionally, China's deflationary pressures have weighed on sentiment in the ferrous market.
