Oil and Energy Market News

Brent crude has pulled back slightly from yesterday's high of $67.78/bbl, though it continues to hold most of the prior session's gains as markets await the release of U.S. August CPI data and monitor geopolitical developments. Tuesday's rally was fueled by heightened geopolitical tensions and the prospect of further sanctions or secondary tariffs on Russia, despite a larger-than-expected U.S. crude inventory build. The EU had already been weighing additional sanctions on Russian banks and energy, and the drone incursion into Polish airspace makes their adoption more likely, with President Trump signaling Washington would align with Brussels. Trump's first response to the incident was notably cryptic, offering little clarity on the U.S. position: "What's with Russia violating Poland's airspace with drones? Here we go!" he wrote on Truth Social.
