

Oil and Energy Market News

Oil prices have pushed higher as an expanding geopolitical risk premium linked to escalating US–Iran tensions outweighs global oversupply concerns and a surprise build in US crude inventories. Brent MAR 26 is up 0.7%. President Trump warned of “very strong action” should Tehran proceed with executions of protesters, including Erfan Soltani, whose execution is expected today, raising the prospect that US threats could soon be tested. The US is withdrawing some personnel from key Middle East bases as a precaution amid rising regional tensions, a US official told Reuters, echoing steps taken ahead of US strikes on Iran in June. JPMorgan said the market’s relatively modest price response to events in Iran may underestimate the potential impact, noting that regime change in major oil producers can have far-reaching consequences for oil markets.
